FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 3.

If the grand jury of the U.S. Court for the Rastern District of Virginia lack information upon which to indite Col. Brady, internal rev. enue agent for the Petersburg district, and Dr. Gilmer, postmaster of Richmond, for offerces against the statutes of the United States by collecting money for political purposes from other employees of the Government, they can readily obtain all that may be required from reliable parties in almost any city in the State; indeed they may get it from the printed circulars signed by the parties referred to and sint by them to all the federal office holders in the State during the political campaign last fall.

The attempt upon the life of Queen Victoria, like the assassination of President Garfield, shows that "king killers" never lack what they conceive to be provocation for their crimes, and that no matter how acceptable rulers may be, there is always danger that some lunatic may imagine that he has been badly treated by them, or that his road to heaven will be made easier by sending them there before him, and so be in. duced to attempt to murder them. But harging such cranks instead of diminishing only tends to increase their number.

The trouble with the democratic party is not a lack, but a superfluity of leaders, not a usurped domination of a few experienced leaders, but the unrestrained ambition of countless inexperienced would be leaders. If these latter would only manifest some of the qualities of leadership, and not found their whole claim to it upon their unsustained assertions, their words would have more force than that of breath; their fitness would be recognized, and they would soon have large followings.

A readjuster paper says: "Col. Richardson is the first judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals ever taken from the Southwest proper." wonder, if hais a sample of the material for judges produced in that section of the State.

Letter from Kichmond. [Ourespondence of the Alexandria Gazatte.]

RICHMOND, Va., March 2 .- Now that the Senate has voted down the proposition for an extension of the session little Lusiness will be done during the week. All the signs indicate that the Governor will call an extra session and so the members are taking an opportucity to blow until next Monday. It is thought that republicing, Mesers, Hoar, Dawer, Hawley and magisterial district in each and every the Governor will issue the call Monday more. Merrill voting against it. Lapham took the and of each and every word is every word. been detained from his office by indisposition he has not been seriously ill.

Yesterday when the time for the election of the Judge of Prices William county sirived both Mr. Nicol in the House and Senator Smith in the Senate spoke briefly against the revolutionary measure of electing a Judge to a place where no vicincy existed and insisted that the General Assembly was going through an election which would be declared ru'l and void by the Supreme Court.

Maj. David A. Carter, whose name will be familiar to all ex-members of the Legislature is quite ill in this city. He has been for many years the journal clerk of the House of Delegates and was for a long time connected with the clerical corps of the House of Representatives. He is one of the best par immentarians in Virginia. Major Carter broke down from the effects of the bad ventilation of the House. This is a matter that has caused loss of health to many legislators, but none seem disposed to take hold of the subject. The Senate room is in even a worse condition. It would be diffioult to find (w) more miserably ventilated halls in America tuan these two and nothing short ginia, are popular with the northern republiof their enlargement and ab olute remodelling Delegates have in more than one instance gone home to die from the eff.c.s of this vicious wentilation, but their successors are not warned ly their face.

of the fact that all the railroad measures seem to originate in that body, and they have the precedence there also. House business often has to lie on the table for weeks because of these railway measures now, none of which can pass unless sanc ioned by the Bess. The fact is Mahone found it to his interest to keep in with the big railroads of the State. Although after the campaign there was a threat made in his organ that the heads of the different railroad presidents would have to come off, it is noticed that none have dropped; on the contrary the Boss throtled a private railroad enterprise actually after it had passed both Houses and simply because he found it interfered with the Richmond and Danville road, a corporation against which soon after the campaigo he swore vergeance because its president was a member of the State Democratio Committee. But no heads have dropped into the basket. The iron rail blunts the keen edge of the guilotine-blade which can sever the head of white haired justice. The Boss who bosses all else is held powerless by the will of the great corporation against which in the hour of exultation be childishly vowed death and disaster. These are things to be remembored when the time to write history strives .-That time is not distant and they will not be ETRONGBOW.

A FEABFUL MISTAKE,-William Walker, a farmer living about eight miles from Chatham, Va., stayed Wednesday night at the store-house of George I. Johnston, sleeping with his clerk, Lyles P. Johnston, and intended taking the early train to Danville. He arose about daybreak and without waking young Johnston dressed himself and left the room. As it was too early for the train he returned, and the noise aroused Johnston, who, thinking it a rotber, se'zed his pistol and asked who it was. Receiving no raply he fired, killing Walker icstantly. The coroner's jury (x)ncrated John-

Special Correspondence of the Alexa, Gazette, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3, 1882. It was stated in this correspondence recently that General Mahone's sway while undisputed throughout the rest of Virgitia did not include the Norfolk district, but the appouncement of Mr. Rue's nomination to the Norfolk postoffice proves that that district also is a part of his domain. The fact is that after a three menths' active emprise in Richmond the General has returned to Washington with the sculps of Messey, the father of readies ment. and four other preminent and leading readjusters dargling from his belt-tut not a sirgle one of the democrats-and is now demand iog, and what is more to the purpose, is receiving his quid pro que f'r giving the republiesus control of the Secate and supporting them with two additional votes in the House. It is stated that Rue's application did not have the signstures of a dezen reputable mee, and it is known that notiber Pestmaster General Howe nor the President wanted to remove the acceptable and efficient incumbent, Mr. Nicols, but the birgeis had been made and the Gen. was inexpreble to his demonds that its terms should be complied with. Mr. Dezenderf was willing that, all the other federal appointments in his district should be placed at the Gonerai's disposal if he D. zendorf would be allowed the single fever of naming the postmaster at his own heme, one that is even allowed demccratic Senators, and though he had fifty odd republican members of the House to back bim in this moderate request it was denied and the General's imperious demands were conceded with becoming grace. No wonder the General's word is law with Virginia republicans when it is so potential with the Administration.

The prevailing idea about the result of Sergeant Mason's trial is that the prisoner wil be suspended for a year without pay, and that that pay will be made up to him by sympathizers. Guiteau, the crezy man, will be hanged, while Mason, the same man, who attempted the same crime, will have a year's boliday with his peckets well supplied from approving countrymen. And still men strive for popular lavor. Guiteau is getting fat and is improving in appearance every day. Among the numerous applications warden Crocker has received for the job of making the rope by which Guitean will be hanged is one from a rope maker in Ohio, who founds his cleim upon the feet that he is a citizen of Onio, and says the rope should be made of sit, the colors of which should be red, white and blue.

> The Mutual Protection Association. At a mosting of the policy holders of the Muinal Protection Association in Richmond, yesterday, a report was made by the committee appointed to examine into its effsire, which charges the officers with the grossest looseness and neglect in the discharge of their duties. Le reply Mr. Wilkinson, President of the association, charged the policy holders with dishonesty and c'simed that the Leegue was simply a body of men ucied for mutual protcotion, and it would have stood for centuries it the policy holders had promptly paid their assessments when called upon so to do. He also asserted that there were no just claims against the association that had not been met. Mr. Stubbs, chairman of the investigating committee, replied to Mr. Wilkinson, charging that the business had been loosely and negligently conducted, and grossly so, and the policy holders had been deceived. He said further that from the f.c. that the President had failed to make the assessments after the death less had been filed within tinety days, and thereby had lulled the policy-holders into security by the negligence of the President, it is a legal question for the courts, whether the steekholders are not responsible to the policy-holders for money they have paid in consequeres of the gross misemduet [not criminal] of the President; and thereby this company is new about to be disorganized in consequence of the nor-payment of
